What Do the Classified Ads Mean to YOU?

Do the classified columns mean to you merely a whole lot of small type, set pretty compactly, and subdivided by various headings?

If they do, you are having a pretty sound sleep, right in the midst of the clamor of a busy world.

For, to people who are wide awake to the things that are happening about them, the classified ads represent something of much more moment than the style of type in which they are printed. These little ads pulse with life, with messages of intimate import and moment to live people.

They afford contact with opportunities for those who are climbing up the ladder of success. They SERVE the business man who needs help, the property owner who wants to sell, the landlord who has something to rent, the man or woman who has something to sell.

They may mean to YOU just as much as they mean to anybody else. It is a mere matter of realizing their significance, of utilizing the service they render, of getting in touch with the currents of life in this city.

Read them-for facts about things that should interest you. Use them-for tasks which you cannot accomplish without their aid. Then they will mean to you UTILITY and SERVICE-such as you will find nowhere else.

Solution On Saturday, October 25, occupied in tabulating returns and in inding out exactly where the count stands with respect to his bond is-sue, the Treasury Department begins preparations for the fifth offering of

The financial leaders say that in all probability this fifth loan before it is offered will have been discounted by the Treasury Department by as much as 75 per cent. That will be accomplished by the sale of short-time. Treasury certificates to the banks so that in this way Secretary McAdoo can receive needed funds in the winter, while these certificates will be available when due for phyments for the bonds of the fifth loan. Not much if any of this money will, according to the best opinion here, be used for meeting the expenses entailed in bringing the American army back to the United States. For it is not the belief that the war will be ended in 1915, but it is the sincere conviction of those who are best informed that We must the financial leaders as will turn to the United States for another year at least in the expec-tation that we will be able to furmay be compelled to feed Russia, for it is very doubtful whether the Russian people will be able for a year or two to feed themselves. There is no question today about our abil-ity, by renson of the splendid har-vest of wheat in 1918, to furnish enough wheat principally in the form of flour to meet the demands of the European countries. Excellent authority asserts that although we can with confidence rely upon our ability to furnish European countries with wheat nevertheless, if in addi-tion to that barley, oats, corn, and oil cake are to be furnished in order to keep up the necessary milk and meat supplies in allied countries, the problem of meeting this demand is likely to be one of the most difficult

Of course some of the nations will avail themselves of the credit or loans which the United States makes to them to pay for these food supplies so that the money obtained from the Liberty Loans, which is in part utilized in median which is in part utilized in making loans to the silies, will not go out of the country but will be received by farmers and there in payment for supplies. There is no doubt that it will devolve upon the United States to furnish food in large amounts to the peoples of some of the countries who must receive this food as a benefaction, not being able food as a benefaction, not being able to pay for it. Presumably, there-fore, some considerable part of the funds obtained by subscriptions to the fourth and fifth loans and ver-likely to a sixth one will be utilized in supplying our friends across the sea with needed food. The aggregate amount which, as now estimated, it will be necessary to send across the sea within the next twelve months, is not far from 22,00,000 tons.
